Q. SELECTED MEDIA APPEARANCES

- Tuesday, Feb 15th, 2011 Afrique en Ligue, in an Article with the title "Kenya-Justice: International Criminal Court Campaign in UN" quoted online.
- Monday, July 21, 2003 Majira (Tanzanian Kiswahili daily) quoted in article entitled "Ukabila Kuziacha Siasa za Kenya."
- Thursday, October 1 2009 The National Star (Kenyan Daily) quoted in an article, "Kenya can't eject US envoy, says scholar" (page 4). Here, Nyinguro emphasized that the US status as a superpower and as one of Kenya's political, diplomatic and economic patron has more leverage over Kenya. He emphasized that in international relations, power realities rather than legal provisions govern actual inter-state relations.
- Thursday, 13th September, 2001 The Daily Nation (Kenya), in its TV review section entitled "Television came of age with terror talk shows". This talk show, dubbed Up Close and Candid was a live show where listeners called in. The topic was the 9/11 terrorist attack on US early that morning. The review observed that "Dr. Nyinguro's contributions were as informative as they were thought-provoking". It also remarked, "As Dr. Nyinguro explained, contrary to the expectations of many Kenyans, America was not going to counter strike that fast".
- Monday, August 19, 2002 East African Standard, p.7(Kenya), In an article entitled, "Non-performing MPs: Blame the Electorate", Dr. Nyinguro was quoted in an interview in which he blamed the ordinary citizens for not playing their part to "make democracy work". He deplored the political apathy and lack of a sense of civic responsibility on the part of citizens.

- Wednesday, July 2, 2003 East African Standard, (Kenya) p.3 in an article “UK: We’re not forcing planned Terrorism Bill”, Andrew Teyie quoted Dr. Nyinguro as he contributed in a workshop on Terrorism held at Nairobi Safari club.
- Thursday May 6, 2001 Business Daily (Kenya) page 4 on the visa row between Kenya and Dubai quoted Dr. Nyinguro as saying that Kenya’s Ministry of Foreign Affairs needed to get its act together.
- Monday, July 15, 2002 East African Standard (Kenya) Page 3, in an article titled: “Revealed: Why the Powerful Luo-Kikuyu political axis failed” extensively quoted Dr. Nyinguro in an interview with the newspaper.
- Sunday May 2, 2010 The Standard on Sunday (Kenya) page 19. In an article “How Magara duped ODM leaders before jumping ship”, the paper began by a quote from an interview with Dr. Nyinguro. The paper quoted Nyinguro as saying of Magara’s defection from ODM, “What he has demonstrated is that we lack political parties that can steer the country on the path of democracy”.
- Sunday June 6, 2010 The Standard on Sunday (Kenya) page 26, contains an article by Lilian Aluanga on the topic “Ministers blame games fan grand coalition woes”, in which Dr. Nyinguro is quoted observing it was illogical to compare the PNU-ODM grand coalition to coalition governments in Germany and the United Kingdom because the circumstances that led to the former are different. Moreover, “the power sharing deal that bore the coalition government was not based on principles like say in Germany and the UK but on a disputed election”, He also blamed the wrangles in the grand coalition on the “lack of a shared vision”.
- Sunday June 27, 2010 The Standard on Sunday (Kenya) on page 2 quotes Dr. Nyinguro as saying in an interview with The Standard that Uhuru, Minister for Finance, was “not resolute and does not know how to play national politics.. His abandonment of the independence party at a time he was leader of the opposition to join President Kibaki’s party of National Unity in 2007 is a sore mark in his history and a pointer he is a desperate politician who can sacrifice democratic ideals for tribal interests.
